President Acts To Heal Party Wounds, Forgives Many Who Fought Him

LEWIS OUTSIDE FOLD

Three Major Addresses To Be Delivered During Next Week End

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—With his administration firmly esconced for another four years, President Roosevelt today set about to heal party wounds and repair political fences in the farm belt.

At the White House it was made plain that so far as the President is concerned, he is not opposed to an extension of the olive branch to the scores of prominent Democrats and ex-New Dealers who deserted to the camp of Wendell L. Willkie.

On that score, however, there is one exception—John L. Lewis, CIO labor leader. Present indications are that the President will be content to allow their relations to pursue the course set by Lewis two weeks before the election—in opposite directions.

The loss of the farm belt to Willkie has the New Deal supporters frankly perplexed. North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Iowa and Indiana were in the Republican column. In addition, Republican state administrations were swept into office in Missouri, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois and Ohio although the President managed to garner their electoral votes.

Approved Farm Program

In 1932 and again in 1936, the President's popularity in the farm belt was unchallenged. When Mr. Roosevelt carried Kansas by 66,000 votes in 1936 against its native son, Alf M. Landon, it was generally hailed not only as a tribute to the President's personal prestige but as an endorsement of his farm program as well.

While some observers contend that the Republican claims in the agricultural states can be set down as a protest against the policies of the AAA, others hold that it was the antipathy which the farm states have for any move that contravenes their strong isolationist leanings. The Republicans made plenty of capital through the Midwest on Willkie's (Continued on Page Eight)

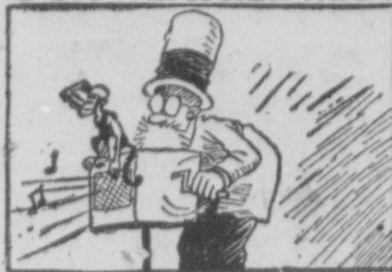

MOTHER LEAVES TWINS, BUT CHARGE IS DROPPED

SANDUSKY, Nov. 8—Mrs. Clara Lucille O'Brien, 23, today was able to rejoin her husband, a traveling salesman, after charges of abandoning her twin baby sons on the steps of a rectory last week were withdrawn.

Police dismissed the charges when the maternal grandmother, in Springfield, Mass., promised to care for the babies.

Mrs. O'Brien told police she left the children because they hindered her traveling with her husband.

SOVIET EMBASSY EVENT ATTENDED BY FRIENDS, FOES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—Washington rested a little easier today, following a reception at the Soviet embassy in celebration of the 23rd anniversary of the Socialist revolution.

Although the countries of many of the diplomats who attended are, or recently have been, at war, no untoward incidents or strained moments marred the gay proceedings.

The big party, given last night by Soviet Ambassador Goumanov, was attended by 800 high government officials, and representatives of many European countries.

Diplomats of Germany, England, Italy, Japan, China and Finland rubbed elbows and chatted during course of the evening.

Government officials attending the reception included Under-secretary of State Sumner Welles, Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones, Supreme Court Justice Stanley Reed and Assistant Secretary of Navy Lewis Compton.

WILLKIE TO TELL NATION OF PLANS FOR THE FUTURE

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—Wendell L. Willkie began work today on the speech he will deliver to his millions of followers and to the nation Monday night over a nationwide radio hookup.

His address was expected to include an outline of the position he believes the Republican party should adopt during the forthcoming four years of the third New Deal administration and a reaffirmation of his previous pledge to cooperate towards national unity, especially in the defense program.

The speech is scheduled for 10:30 to 11 p. m. over the three national radio chains who donated the time to the Republican presidential candidate.

Willkie said he was moved to make the address by the thousands of letters he has received urging him to continue his crusade against the New Deal political policies.

"I want to tell what in my opinion is both the duty and the obligation of those who voted for me," Willkie said. "I feel an obligation to talk to them. I want to talk, too, to the entire nation."

TWO NATIONS PROTEST DEMANDS BY BULGARIA

BUDAPEST, Nov. 8—A Bulgarian press campaign demanding territorial concessions from Turkey and Yugoslavia has resulted in formal protests by diplomatic representatives of the Turkish and Yugoslavian governments at Sofia, it was reported today.

After demanding that the Bulgarian presentation of claims be toned down, it was understood, the ministers were assured the Sofia government would counsel the press to adopt a more moderate attitude.

TWO AVIATORS ESCAPE DEATH IN PARACHUTES AS PLANE WINGS LOCK

CAMP SKEEL, Mich., Nov. 8—Taking to their parachutes when their pursuit planes locked wings in mid-air, two army aviators escaped death today.

The men who floated safely to earth were First Lieut. Melvin F. McNichol and Second Lieut. George W. Prentice. Both are attached to the 39th pursuit squadron, Selfridge Field, Mich.

The planes fell into a woods west of nearby Mickado.

VATICAN MOVES TO SAVE ROME

Holy See To Ask Britain To Renew Assurances Against Attacks

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 8—Shocked by a warning from London that British bombers may attack Rome, the Holy See prepared to appeal today for renewed British assurances that the eternal city will be spared the horrors of air raids.

(Editor's Note: The British warning was issued yesterday by British Foreign Under Secretary R. A. Butler, who told the House of Commons in London that Britain "reserves full liberty of action in regard to Rome" since Italian planes and aviators have participated in attacks on London.)

A spokesman for the Holy See said that Vatican circles were "surprised and alarmed" at the British government's intimation of its intention to bomb Rome.

According to the spokesman, the Holy See plans to appeal for renewed British assurances that Rome will not be bombed.

Such assurances, the spokesman said, were requested and obtained from London prior to Italy's entrance into the war on the basis of Italian assurances that Italy would not bomb London.

Vatican circles asserted that German communiques three times have mentioned Italian participation in bombing attacks on England, but that Italian bombing of London has never been mentioned in Italian communiques or through other Italian official channels.

TURKEY CALLS UP ALL MALES TO BE TRAINED

ANKARA, Nov. 8—Turkey moved swiftly to complete the final stages of military mobilization today with a call to all males of military age not yet called up with their respective classes to report for immediate training.

Collapse Of Big Tacoma Bridge Being Blamed On Change In Construction

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 8—Federal and state engineers investigated every structural detail of the $6,400,000 Tacoma narrows bridge today in an effort to learn why the span—the world's third largest suspension bridge—collapsed in a wind storm yesterday only four months after it had been opened to traffic.

Pending thorough study, the crackup of the 2,700-foot span was tentatively attributed to a change in the original plans.

C. E. Andrews, chief engineer of the bridge, said yesterday's 50-mile-an-hour wind may have caused the span to abnormally undulate, rock and finally snap because of its solid, flat girder. The original specifications, he said, called for streamlined, lighter girders, which would have reduced wind resistance. It was later decided, Andrews said, to use the heavier, flat girders.

Only one automobile and a logging truck were on the bridge when guy wires and cables snapped, dropping huge chunks of concrete and steel into Puget Sound with a tremendous roar. While the two vehicles plunged into the water, their occupants ran and crawled to safety. A pet dog in one of the machines was killed. After the center section of the

British Assisting Ally In Carrying Out Raids On Albanian Regions

LONDON, Nov. 8—Koritza, the Italian base in Albania now threatened by Greek troops, is still in Italian hands, British military circles said today.

ATHENS, Nov. 8—Amid a thundering artillery duel, Greek warriors on the left wing of the Epirus Front today hurled back a series of heavy Italian assaults, according to the Grecian high command.

Destruction of nine Italian tanks also was claimed by the high command, which added that Fascist bombing attacks on Corfu and on towns and villages in the interior of Greece caused a number of casualties, but failed to damage military objectives.

One Italian bomber was shot down by anti-aircraft batteries, it was claimed.

An official Greek communique stated:

"On the Epirus Front, where Greek troops earlier withdrew somewhat, local enemy attacks on our left wing positions were repulsed. Along the entire front there was an exchange of artillery fire.

"During the night of November 5 a detachment of Greek infantry sappers carried out a bold action, destroying nine enemy tanks which had been put out of action two days earlier.

"The tanks were immobilized in the front line of the Epirus region by successful fire from anti-tank guns.

"Yesterday enemy aircraft bombed Corfu and towns and villages in the interior of the country. Some persons were killed and wounded but there was no damage to military objectives. Anti-aircraft batteries shot down one bomber."

A Greek spokesman said that military operations in the north were following a "satisfactory course" and that the Greek withdrawal on the Epirus Front, announced yesterday, was "purely local."

Meanwhile, it was reported, (Continued on Page Eight)

Jimmy Roosevelt Off For Camp

WITH a minimum of fanfare—and baggage too—Captain James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President, is pictured with members of the 22nd Marine Corps Reserve at a Los Angeles railway station enroute for San Diego, Cal., to undergo a three month training period.

Jim Roosevelt's Order Puts Men Against Wall

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 8—Five hundred and fifty Marine Corps Reserve troops and 22 officers were ready to entrain for active duty at Camp Elliot near San Diego.

The 22nd battalion was mustered on the parade grounds near the armory, and the young captain suddenly barked:

"Left face!"

The men obeyed to the letter—and stood facing a cement wall, with their backs toward their captain—James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President.

Capt. Roosevelt quickly saw his error, barked another command and the company turned to its proper position.

Major W. S. Van Dyke, who in private life is a screen director, smiled and politely said nothing.

European Bulletins

LONDON — Reports published abroad that a British-Australian-American deal has been completed permitting American use of the huge British naval base at Singapore were categorically denied by a British foreign office spokesman today. This spokesman emphasized that informal exchanges between London and Washington are continuing concerning mutual clarification of views regarding Pacific bases, but are not concerned with reaching any hard and fast decisions.

LONDON — Diplomatic circles in London expressed hopes today that President Roosevelt would aid the British government in reaching an agreement with Eire giving British war and merchant ships access to Irish ports and bases. It was suggested President Roosevelt might use his good offices to arrange a conference between Prime Ministers Winston Churchill and Eamon De Valera for discussion of the question.

MAN BLAMED FOR DEATH OF SON HELD IN OHIO

AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 8—Maine officials today were headed for Toledo, O., to return Norman C. Burgoyne to face charges of slaying his crippled son, Robert, 5, in Scarborough.

The typewriter repair worker was arrested there after a detective recognized him from a police circular.

Burgoyne was quoted by Toledo officials as saying that the death of his son in August, 1937, was accidental.

"The child died as the result of a fall, and I became frightened and ran away," Burgoyne was quoted.

Burgoyne, according to police, said he and his wife buried the boy's body in woods near Scarborough.

ENGLAND TO BE CRIPPLED?

86,000 Tons Sent To Bottom In One Assault, According To Spokesman; Air Activity Being Resumed

BERLIN, Nov. 8—Germany's "blockade" of England in the Atlantic materialized in triple form today as the Nazi air force, U-boats and surface naval craft combined to hurl a series of blows against British convoys coming from America.

A German high command announcement stated that surface forces of the navy "completely annihilated" a British shipping convoy of 86,000 tons in the North Atlantic.

German circles said the latest attacks on British shipping formed the first stage of the German campaign to throw an iron ring around England and cut it off from the area of greatest support.

They added that the blockade will be tightened by progressive stages as new waves of U-boats and German surface craft and planes intensify their raids on every sea route leading to England.

The entire German effort, these quarters added, will be to "ripen England for the final collapse."

The high command's communique said that a British convoy in the Atlantic was destroyed by German naval forces and ships aggregating 86,000 tons were sunk.

This is the greatest amount of British shipping claimed to have been sunk in a single action. Germany's previous record claimed was the sinking of part of a convoy totalling 78,000 tons.

Although details have not yet been revealed, preliminary information tended to indicate that the ill-fated British convoy included the British steamer Cornish City and the 16,698-ton British passenger liner Rangitiki.

(Editor's Note: On Tuesday the Cornish City and Rangitiki radioed they were being shelled by a German battleship of the "Graf Spee class"—either the Leutow or the Admiral Scheer—in the center of the North Atlantic.)

It also was indicated that at least a dozen or 15 other ships were sent to the bottom. German quarters pointed out that the official announcement mentioned only mercantile tonnage sunk and did not include any escorting warships.

Germans Elated
Nazi quarters were elated at this "resounding success of the first stage of the total sea blockade," as they termed it.

They said they considered it within the bounds of possibility that the axis powers in the com-

Sixteen Scouters from Circleville and Pickaway County met at Memorial Hall Thursday night to begin a leadership training program for scout leaders.

David Goldschmidt was elected master of the organization sponsoring the program. Other officers elected included F. C. Schaeffer, senior patrol leader; L. V. Hulse, scribe; and treasurer, Irvin Leist, the Rev. Robert Kelsey, John Robinson and Roger Lozier, patrol leaders.

During Thursday night's meeting Dr. Schaeffer discussed the "Group Plan" in scouting, describing the subdivisions of cubbing, troop and tribe scouting, senior scouting and rover scouting.

The next meeting will be held next Thursday night at 7:30 in Memorial Hall. The speaker for the evening has not yet been selected.

HERALD TO LIST ORDER NUMBERS OF DRAFTEES SUBMITTED BY BOARD

Because several changes have been made in the original list of draftees compiled by the Pickaway County Selective Service Board, The Daily Herald will start early next week to publish an approved list of draftees and their order numbers.

The Herald to date has been publishing order numbers, registrant's numbers and names of persons who have registered under the Military Service Act. However, names of a number of registrants have been taken from the original list and sent to other counties where the registrants maintain their legal residences, thus causing errors to appear in the published list.

The publication to start next week, as soon as the order number list is available, will list order numbers as assigned by the Draft Board.

OFFICES CLOSE MONDAY
All offices in the Pickaway Court House will be closed all day Monday in observance of Armistice Day.

Five Held Here On Theft Count

Vigilance Of Highway Patrolmen Leads Negroes To Jail; Ironton To Press Charges; Merchandise Recovered

Five Negroes, wanted by Ironton authorities for the theft of numerous articles of clothing, were being held at County Jail Friday following their capture Thursday night by State Highway Patrolman J. G. Edie and Corporal R. L. Galbreath near Logan Elm Inn, south of Circleville on Route 23.

Arrest of the five came after the two officers had heard a radio message from a Wilmington district station on a auto license check on license number "W-21-U," and Ironton authorities were notified the numbers had not yet been issued.

Just "Toby"—That's the only name used by one of the latest additions to the cast of the Boone County Jamboree, the fast moving and entertaining show coming to the Grand Theatre, Sunday, November 10, for one day only.

Although he's short a last name, Toby is long on his ability to entertain. Toby does comedy, is an accomplished musician and one of the best novelty musicians in the country today. Toby plays an ordinary carpenter's saw, a set of tuned sleigh-bells, does almost the impossible by playing two saxophones at one and the same time; and also gives an electrifying demonstration of xylophone playing.

Toby came to the Boone County Jamboree from Lincoln, Nebraska. He has also been with leading

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 8—Wendell Willkie's backers in Evanston, far from dismayed by the election result, today were organizing what may be the nation's first "Willkie for President in 1944 Club."

Justice of the Peace George W. Harrison, sponsor of the club, telegraphed Willkie that the huge popular vote given him last Tuesday entitled him to "a return bout with the champ." The "Willkie Crusade" must go on, Harrison said.

COLUMBUS MAYOR ASKS FIFTY MORE POLICEMEN

Lily Pons, coloratura soprano and prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera, will appear in concert at Memorial Hall, Columbus, Monday, Nov. 18 under auspices of Capital University. The concert begins at 8:30 p. m.

According to word received from New York by Manager Harin Harms, Lily Pons will include in her program the aria "Caro nome" from Rigoletto in which Gilda, daughter of Rigoletto, expresses her love for the philandering Duke whom she knows only as the student, Walter Malde, "name of love that I adore."

Seats are still available at all prices and may be had at the downtown Columbus box office at Heaton's Music Store, or at the box office on the Capital University campus. —Adv.

Near Logan Elm Inn, as the patrolmen were questioning another motorist, they saw the car bearing the license "W-21-U" go by headed toward Circleville. They gave chase and overtook the car before it reached Circleville. The five men arrested were William Alexander, 22, of Columbus; Ray Bourne, 20, Curtis Edwards, 20, Clarence Hoard, 20, and Robert Cockerall, 20, all of Ironton.

Stolen goods in the car, which belonged to Alexander, included two new topcoats, two new hats, three zipper jackets, 10 pairs of trousers and other articles believed to have been stolen in Ironton. Alexander told authorities he had purchased his license tags direct from the bureau of motor vehicles in Columbus, Wednesday, and the record of the purchase had probably not reached the Columbus district station.

All five men are expected to be turned over to Ironton authorities Friday.

NEED FOR NEW 'MOSES' CITED FOR DEMOCRATS

Davey's Lopsided Defeat By Bricker Puts Party On Defensive In Ohio

PROSPECTS ARE POOR

Many Available Men Not Able To Obtain Full
Party Support

COLUMBUS, Nov. 8 — The Democratic party in Ohio today began the long and tedious search for a political Moses to lead it to the promised land of governorship—two years hence.

Perhaps somewhere in the Buckeye state such a leader is awaiting the call, but where to look for him was a problem that baffled the most astute Democrats.

The present standard-bearer Martin L. Davey, will be the nominal head of the party until a candidate for governor is nominated in 1942, but his crushing defeat Tuesday by his arch political foe, Gov. John W. Bricker, a Republican, left him with little more than a hollow title.

Candidates of both parties have been defeated before and have come back to lead a victory march in a later election, but they were not burdened with the handicaps that beset Davey.

Defeat Lopsided

He received the worst drubbing in the recent gubernatorial election of any nominee for that office in Ohio's history. The campaign had a single issue—the merits or demerits of the Bricker administration versus those of Davey's two administrations.

The voters of Ohio spoke in terms unmistakable even to the most loyal Davey follower. They turned thumbs down on the Democratic nominee to the tune of an unprecedented 359,633 majority for Bricker.

It is the consensus of Democrats in the capital that so long as the enmity between Davey and Sawyer continues—and even the most optimistic of them does not expect it to vanish soon—neither can be elected governor.

If their views are correct, it is up to the Democrats to find a new leader acceptable to both Davey and Sawyer or become resigned to a chain of Republican successes.

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, having just been elected to a second 4-year term, would rate consideration, but it is generally known that many Democrats appraise him as lacking in gubernatorial stature.

William J. Kennedy, former secretary of state, has long entertained ambitions to be governor, but his outspoken opposition to Davey two years ago makes him of doubtful availability as a compromise candidate.

Donahy's Health Poor

U. S. Sen. Vic Donahy, retiring soon from the senate, served three terms as governor and is the party's best vote-getter. Some party leaders have tried to get him to run for a fourth term, but his health is not good and his friends say the idea does not appeal to him.

George White, who served two terms, would be handicapped by his bolt to Wendell Willkie in the recent presidential campaign.

With virtually all of its widely known figures disqualified for one reason or another, the Democratic party unquestionably has a problem of first magnitude in selecting a gubernatorial nominee for 1942.

Defeat by that margin would be difficult enough for a gubernatorial nominee to survive even in a

Stands For Inauguration Already Being Erected

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 — The presidential inauguration is nearly three months off, but already who-overall carpenters are busy erecting stands and seats on Capital Plaza. Reason for this unusual haste is—the defense program.

"If we waited much longer," explains David Lynn, veteran Capitol Architect, "we wouldn't be able to get any lumber. The erection of the great camps for the selective service trainees has caused a shortage in the lumber market. The Government is buying up all the good lumber it can get for the cantonments."

The lumber shortage also will affect the seating capacity. There will be room for only 12,500 spectators—2,000 less than in 1937. Congress appropriated the same amount of money as four years ago, but with increased material and lumber costs the $35,000 isn't going as far.

BRITISH DILEMMA

Diplomats are still puzzled why the Italians invaded Greece at the time they did. In fact, rumors are recurrent that there has been a certain cooling off between Rome and Berlin, and that Mussolini bargained with Greece without telling his Axis partner.

Whether this rumor is true nobody can yet tell, for the simple reason that only about four men participate in the Mussolini-Hitler conversations. But lending some credence to it is the fact that the Italians have made little headway, and seem to be relatively unprepared.

Real truth, according to intelligence reports received here, is that the Italian army has not the slightest enthusiasm for its job. Reports continue that the Italian people also don't like the role of Balkan conquest which has been cut out for them.

Meanwhile, no matter what may be the real situation between Hitler and Mussolini, it remains a fact that the British face a tough proposition in giving any real help to Greece. (So far they have not landed more than 20,000 men.)

One look at the map of the Mediterranean shows what the British are up against. They have three war arenas which they non-presidential year, but it stood out in bold relief because of Democratic successes in the presidential, secretary of state, state auditor, congressional and legislative contests.

Anti-Davey Democrats interpreted the returns as a decisive and final mandate from the Ohio voters that they do not want Davey in the governor's office for a third term.

With Davey thus repudiated, the party might turn to its national committeeman, Charles Sawyer, for leadership, but here, too, was a stumbling block and a big one.

Sawyer long has been a political foe of Davey and vice versa. Two years ago Sawyer wrested the Democratic gubernatorial nomination from Davey, and relations between the two were so strained that Davey refused to campaign for Sawyer against Bricker, and, or least so the Sawyer faction believes, he refused to permit state employees to work for Sawyer's election.

Some persons on the sidelines thought the breach was healed in Chicago last July when Davey endorsed the re-election of Sawyer as national committeeman, but later events tended to disprove that assumption.

Sawyer Stayed Out

Sawyer, inviting Davey to follow suit, remained out of the 1940 Democratic gubernatorial primary, hoping that a candidate behind whom both of the rival factions could unite would be nominated. But Davey did not share his views and with the opposition divided among six candidates he easily won the nomination.

FOUR BLAZES CAUSE BIG DAMAGE IN CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, Nov. 8—Damage caused by four separate fires in the Cincinnati area was estimated today at $7,000. Twenty cocker spaniels were burned to death when fire destroyed a kennel near Bevis at a loss of $2,500; the Carthage Methodist Church was damaged to the extent of $2,000; a Price Hill dwelling was destroyed at a loss of $1,500, and a Walnut Hills Flat building blaze sent five Negro families from the homes and caused $1,000 damage.

"Lavender, who'll buy my lavender," is one of the oldest English street cries. Lavender is also native to Spain, and was introduced into France by Charlemagne. It is used as a linen freshener, for sachet and soothing baths.

CHILDREN OF SCRANTON, Pa., Physician Mangled By Explosion

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 8 — Police experts from New York and Philadelphia were summoned today to help Scranton police in tracking down the perpetrator of the bombing which killed the two young children of Dr. E. H. Rehborn, city health director, as they stepped into their father's car.

The two children, William Rehborn, 21, and his sister, Lois, 18, were horribly mangled. The bomb exploded as they entered their father's car, parked in front of the house from opposite doors.

The bomb apparently was attached somewhere under the hood, police believed. It also apparently was aimed at Dr. Rehborn although police said they could discover no immediate motive for a plot against him.

Dr. Rehborn was at a staff meeting in the Moses Taylor Hospital when the call for help came from his home address. He responded along with six other doctors and almost collapse at the sight of the mangled bodies of his children in the street. Mrs. Rehborn, who rushed from the house at the sound of the blast, was prostrated by grief and shock.

Cicero is said to have coined the phrase, "while there is life there is hope," his version being "While the sick man has life there is hope."

NIGHT SCHOOL SESSION AT WILLIAMSPORT HAS EXCELLENT ATTENDANCE

Great interest was evidenced by the 80 parents present at the night school session of the Williamsport Schools held Thursday from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. at the school building under the direction of Wendell Boyer, school superintendent.

School was dismissed for one-half of the afternoon session. The school buses transferred the children to the school in the evening where two periods of the high school work were presented. All the grades carried out their routine class work.

Parents visiting the school were registered, the 80 present representing 75 percent of the parents of the school children.

The plan will be carried out once more during the school year to acquaint the parents with the progress of the children in their studies.

TO CITIZENS

LADIES, GENTLEMEN: The voice of the people was sounded in no minor tone this week when two leaders in whom all Pickaway Countians are interested were returned to respective positions at the head of the national and state governments. President Roosevelt and Governor Bricker received definite votes of confidence when they were returned to their positions, and all of us should get our shoulders to the wheel to put every iota of strength into the move to make national unity appreciated as it has never before been appreciated. National unity means everything to us. Divided, it is not hard to believe that dictators who seem to have their eyes on everything in both hemispheres would make an effort to add our fair country to their jurisdiction. With unity prevailing, there is nothing in the world big enough or powerful enough to make the United States subservient to any "fuehrer" or "duce". The presidential campaign, and that for the gubernatorial honor, also, stirred up much resentment among persons of both parties. There were more harsh words heard than in any campaign for a good many years, but the nation's leaders, the men who were candidates for the major offices, have voiced pleas that all pull for one cause, that of national unity. It is our duty to forget past differences and go to work to make our nation a better place in which to live. Each of us has a task to perform, and I feel certain that each will come through with colors flying.

TO HUNTERS

FELLOWS: Next Friday, November 15, several thousand of you will invade Pickaway County fields and wood lots as the pheasant and rabbit season opens. Every year "first day" accidents in the state are high. With county game protectors reporting an abundance of game in the county this year, more hunters are expected to pour in from other counties, thereby increasing the chances for accidents. Hunting is great sport, especially for those who love the out-of-doors, but it is one which in the past has been very much abused by those who participate in it. A hunter who trespasses, one who shoots more than his bag limit, or one who takes game unlawfully does not deserve to enjoy it. Guns are dangerous when in the

WORLD AT A GLANCE

AS AN international authority Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh does not rate very high at the state department. When he discusses aviation, however, all our military men listen to him most respectfully.

Consequently his recent assertion that an air attack on the United States would involve the surmounting of "almost insurmountable difficulties" is receiving plenty of serious consideration by army, navy and flying experts.

To recapitulate briefly, Lindy's proposition is that no formidable force could be landed in this country directly by plane from overseas; to bomb us at all, to amount to anything, an enemy nation would have to have a base or bases much nearer to us than clear across either of our oceans.

Now, how, queries the colonel, could an enemy establish such a base or bases? It could only be done, he answers, by the ferrying of a sizable army over the surface of the waters, effecting a landing and hanging onto whatever spot or spots it had chosen to occupy.

And, in his opinion, our own planes, operating not far from home, would play smash with the enemy's transports; whereas the enemy's planes, still lacking a western hemispherical base to land on or take off from, couldn't afford their surface craft any effective protection.

practical for 'em to fly here, from as far away as their home bases, except virtually to commit suicide.

HE SHOULD KNOW

That Colonel Lindbergh's qualified to discuss army and naval possibilities is doubtful maybe, but it generally is agreed that he knows what airplanes can do. So when he says that they can't bother us materially, from as far off as Europe, the assumption is that he understands what he's talking about.

Of course, remark our navy strategists, familiar with the Oriental situation, Japan's different. If the Axis wins in Europe and Germany, for instance, presently decides to take the warpath against us, it will have to visit our Pan-American shores of the Atlantic; we shan't go over there. In that case perhaps Lindy's argument will hold water.

But nobody expects the Japs to come here to attack us. What they're likelier to do is to create conditions in the Far East to the prejudice of our interests, in which event we'll have to cross to their side of the Pacific. We'll be in the same fix that Lindy says Germany will be in if Herr Hitler undertakes a thrust in our direction. We're the ones who'll have to cross an ocean to gain an anti-Japanese foothold, with all the natural advantages against us.

If Lindy would confine himself to the subject of aviation he certainly would have a respectful audience.

It's when he gets into world hands of inexperienced persons. Here are some of the "don'ts" that sportsmen believe every hunter should know:

1. Never point your gun at any object at which you do not want to shoot;
2. Never carry your gun cocked;
3. Never shoot into moving brush when you cannot see what is there;
4. Never put a loaded gun in an automobile;
5. Never pull a loaded gun through a fence with the muzzle toward you.

CIRCUITEER.

TO FOOTBALL FANS

FOLK: At 8 o'clock tonight the last football game of the 1940 season will be played on the high school field. It is true that Circleville's team has not won a single game, that it has been able to tie only two opponents, but there are many followers of the gridiron sport who have confidence in the boys and their coaches despite the lack of scoring on the victory side of the slate. There is no better time to support a person than the time when he is down, when things are breaking badly, and nothing seems to go correctly. Anyone can support a winner, but the proof of the person's sportsmanship is in the way he strings along with a loser. Our boys are typical Americans, they like to play football, and most of them train the best way they can for work they do on the football field. How about going to the game tonight and cheering the boys and their coaches on in their endeavors to make the final game of the year the best one?

CIRCUITEER.

TO MERCHANTS

FRIENDS: Fire Chief Talmer Wise made an excellent suggestion today, and passed it on to The Circuiteer. He asked that operators of all business houses in the city obtain a small card, just big enough to contain a couple of names, and then place it in the window of each store. This card, the chief pointed out, should contain the name of the manager, his home address and telephone number, and that of at least one other employee who carries a key. This card could be used in case of a minor fire, or some other disturbance during hours in which the store is closed. If a bad fire is discovered, the chief pointed out, the department breaks into the store regardless, but in case of a minor difficulty the fire fighters do not like to break down doors or go through windows to gain access. Store operators will be helping the firemen and at the same time protecting their properties if they will comply with the request.

CIRCUITEER.

TO ELECTION OFFICIALS

WORKERS: Tuesday's momentous election is history now, but I will remember always the ability with which you conducted the voting during the day and the count of the ballots when the various decisions were being decided. The fact that the number of votes cast established an all-time record for the county did not prevent you from doing a swell job in a short time. The precinct that was last in turning in its final report was the one with the largest vote in the entire county, so it was justified in being the last to report. So often a precinct lags behind because some of its officials can't see any reason why they should speed up their work.

DIET AND HEALTH

'Old Wives' Gossip

By LOGAN CLENENING, M. D.

At the end of about the fourth or fifth decade of life, comes the sixth of the seven ages of woman. Here a reversal occurs in the chemical tides of the ductless glands, their secretions diminish, changes in the elasticity of the arteries occur, a tendency to fat storage appears (or if it has already appeared is accelerated) and there is an atrophy of the skin.

Old wives' gossip has invested this period of life with dreadful many women spend ten miserable years looking forward to it. This attitude should be dispelled. Some day we are going to get up a good will conspiracy to agree not to talk about the climacteric with women who have not passed through it. Or at least to talk about it in helpful terms.

Helpful Medicines

Modern medicine has found many methods of alleviating the symptoms of this period—methods entirely unknown fifty years ago. Most of this improvement is in the form of extracts of the ductless glands—some form of estrogen at present is considered to give the best results. Calcium gluconate tablets combined with vitamin are valuable in combating the heart.

The heart and blood vessels are unstable at this time and subject to many temporary upsets. There is the symptom so annoying to most women which comes when the blood vessels of the face dilate and there is a feeling of heat and stuffiness. These crises make some women self-conscious and are very embarrassing for that reason. Incidentally they occur in men as well as women, and in both instances indicate a temporary upset in the nerves which control the size of the blood vessels. We know pretty thoroughly all about the chemistry of the condition now and can do much to relieve it.

Temperamental Upsets

A common attitude towards this phase of life is that it is in some way connected with mental illness. It can be said at once that a woman who has had previously a good emotional adjustment need not fear such an eventuality at this period," writes Dr. Milton J. Miller, in Hygiea. Temperamental upsets appear, but usually in those who were temperamentally unstable before. My experience has been that the woman who has always been an ardent or tyrant in her family, who has dominated or tried to dominate an only son, or a small family, will use this period to put on a show and make the whole family uncomfortable. The woman who has had to manage a large family and therefore has had to submerge her own personality shows little "temperament" during this period.

But, most important of all to remember is that for the majority of women—perhaps 70 per cent—this period comes and goes with hardly any disagreeable symptoms at all—almost unnoticed.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

H. J. W.—"Would you advise a cold shot for a child three years old? The last two winters our boy has been very susceptible to colds. He has been getting all the cod liver oil that he should have, but it doesn't help him resist colds."

Answer—I do not believe that cold shots are certainly helpful in preventing colds for anybody, no matter what age. In a three-year-old it seems to me the chances are that the cause of recurrent colds is infected tonsils and adenoids.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. CHAPTER NINETEEN KIT FELT hurt, so hurt she wanted to cry without knowing why. She thought it was because she had wanted to create an atmosphere of gaiety and ease between Vance and herself and she couldn't find the way. It wasn't gaiety, it was propriety, but she didn't know that was what was lacking.

"How much work do you do, Kit?"

"Oh, Vance, what has work got to do with everything? I hear nothing but work all day."

"Work has everything to do with it, baby. No work, no checkee. No checkee, no shutee."

"I work," she assured him. "I'm learning harmony, and I spend three hours a day with my coach going over the two songs I sing, songs I've been singing all my life."

Silence followed her words. Vance glanced at his wrist watch. Kit was beginning to feel desperate. She said, "If you've got that pipe you spoke about, you may smoke if you like."

He said, "Thanks."

The business of getting a pipe going involves many operations. When Vance had his going and had settled a little deeper in his chair, Kit said demurely, "I can almost believe now that you are the kind of man who likes to spend an evening with his books."

"I often do."

Kit could talk about books if he wanted to. Kit could have talked about the New York Giants, turkeys or butterfly nets if those were the subjects he was interested in. "What kind of books do you like?"

"Law books. I can't get law out of my system. A hangover from my childhood. I wanted to be a lawyer."

"Why didn't you study law?"

He fussed with his pipe. He said slowly, "It's a long story. My old man was a farmer in Idaho and things were tough when I was a kid. But some kids are romantic and they like it that way. I did. Like most boys, I had a hero. He was a poor kid, too, and I wanted to be like him, grow up like him, go through the same kind of fire he did. Not that I cared about being president, but—" He broke off, looking strangely young and embarrassed.

Kit curled her legs up under a swirl of chiffon and said softly, "Lincoln! Go on, Vance."

He knocked the embers out of his pipe into the hearth. "There isn't anything to go on with. I worked until I had enough money to come east to college. When I got here I was broke, but I got plenty of jobs —waiting on table, rustling trunks. I worked for a tailor pressing clothes, and tutored a lot of dim-wits. The usual things—"

"Well, you can't stop now. Come on with the rest of it."

"Then I got into football and that was the end of the honest effort. The law business blew up."

Kit said, "Why?"

"Well, there's a lot that goes into—oh, there was a lot of hoop and newspaper buildup about my gridiron talent when I made the All-Amer—when we won a lot of games and, after I graduated, I fell into a soft spot announcing sports for CBC. There was a lot of dough, more than I'd ever seen, and it seemed like a good way to make enough to get to law school."

"And then?"

"Then there was more and more money and then it was too late to break away. A simple story, Miss O'Reilly, a simple story. Let it point a moral to you."

Vance was going to say nothing more on the subject. He already had said more than he had said to man or girl in those eight years. H. said, "I think reading would be good for you."

Kit said, "What kind of reading?"

"History, philosophy, science. It's mighty interesting. If you haven't done any, you ought to start with something simple in history. I'll bring you over a copy of Wells' 'Outline of History.' I think you'll enjoy it."

Kit took a long breath. Vance was coming back again. For over an hour she'd been sick with the thought that he hadn't found her interesting, that she'd never see him again unless she ran into him accidentally.

Everything was lovely.

Then she froze. Unmistakably the aroma from the kitchen could be no other than the aroma of onions. Onions cooking with the beef and spice. She closed her eyes. After she'd set the stage with all the props of the ultra in gentility . . . onions!

Vance had caught the scent, also. He moved his nostrils with an almost imperceptible gesture of enjoyment.

Kit said, "It's stew. Stew is Fran's piece de resistance. You haven't met her, have you?"

"No, but I'd like to."

Kit called, "Fran?"

Fran opened the door. "Yes, Kit."

"Come in and meet Mr. Healey. Vance, this is Miss Le Maze."

They said how do you to each other, and Fran said, "Umm. I'm sorry about the garlic . . . but you know garlic."

Vance's eyes twinkled at Kit. He said, "It's one of my favorite smells. But I'm surprised to find you doing the cooking, Miss Le Maze. Kit told me she loved nothing better than whipping up a cake and I thought—"

"You don't put garlic in cakes," Kit said.

"I always do," he said firmly.

"Well, if you like it, why don't you stay and have supper with us? There's plenty," Fran invited.

Kit shot a dire glance at the other girl. She'd hoped, later, perhaps, to ask Vance to dinner. Dinner that featured a rare soup, tender duck roast-d with white grapes and orange, an exotic salad. And Fran was calmly inviting him to share a humble stew.

Vance's eyes lit up. His voice was boyish and eager. Mean it? Sure, I'd love to—if it's okay with you, Kit."

Kit thought, "What an idiot I am! I think about him as if he were a prince who would touch nothing that was not gold. And he's regular." She said, "Please stay. I'll get out of these draperies and make some biscuits."

"If we had some greens, we could have a greens and cheese salad if we had some cheese," Fran announced.

Vance was half way to the door before she finished. "I'll make the salad," he promised. "Where's the nearest grocery?"

"The way to a man's heart is through his stomach," Fran remarked sagely, if somewhat tritely, that night.

If that first invitation, and those that followed, didn't find Vance's heart, it marked, at least, the beginning of a friendship that brought him frequently to the apartment in Sutton place.

He came to bring books to Kit, to teach her to read, to know poets and philosophers. Sometimes these lessons followed the regular Sunday noon breakfast that Vance shared with them. Sometimes he'd put the book away and tell her that all work and no play would make her dull. Then he'd take the two girls to a movie.

He taught Kit the wonders of astronomy, taking her to the Planetarium where she looked more often at the shape of his head, his profile, than at the bowl of stars above them.

After the night of her party, he did not kiss her again. Between them there was a pleasant camaraderie in which Kit was happy. But not always content. But she could wait and hope—as long as Vance was in her life.

Words of Wisdom

Do little things now; so shall big things come to thee by and by asking to be done. — Persian proverb.

Hints on Etiquette

Speak pleasantly to trades persons with whom you do business when you meet them on the street. Ice man, milkman and grocery boy also deserve a pleasant greeting when you meet. Of course if you are wealthy and have servants you won't know such persons, but most of us do know them.

Today's Horoscope

A happy year is forecast for those whose have birthdays today. They may expect much success in their business and undertakings, travel and domestic affairs. This is a good time to make changes. Born on this date a child will be retiring, sensitive and impressionable, good-natured and inoffensive. Such a personality will not, however, be too well fitted to fight life's battles.

One-Minute Test Answers

1. Springfield, Minn.
2. Mt. Athos on the Macedonian coast of the Aegean sea. Since the early days of Christianity it has been the retreat of monks, and no men have lived there.

Evangelism Discussed
For Methodist Women

Rev. Peterson Has
Program Role
For W. S. C. S.

The Rev. Neil Peterson reviewed the chapter on "Our Heritage in Personal Evangelism" at the Thursday meeting of the Women's Society for Christian Service. Mrs. G. H. Adkins was in charge of the monthly session held in the parlor of the Methodist Church.

The Rev. Mr. Peterson spoke of the beginning of women's activities in the Methodist Church through their missionary efforts, the gradual expansion of their interests in India, China, Korea, Brazil, Africa and their enlarged program in the home country. He stressed the practical application of evangelism in our personal life and our community life. The needs of the boys and girls of Circleville must be met, he said, as well as those of other lands and other races.

The session opened with group singing followed by prayer by the Rev. Mr. Peterson.

Mrs. F. E. Barnhill announced that each circle should appoint a supply secretary and each circle is to be responsible for one quilt or comfort.

Miss Adella Huffman, the general supply secretary, asked that all members contributing fruits and jellies or other supplies for South Side Settlement, Columbus, have them ready by November 17. Circle leaders to call for them. Reports were presented by the seven circle leaders.

Mrs. Raymond Rader, vice president in charge of local church activities, presented her report and asked that some necessary equipment be purchased for the kitchen. Mrs. Adkins appointed Mrs. Rader, Mrs. Harold Grant and Mrs. Edwin Bach as a committee to purchase the equipment. Miss Mattie Gearhart reported for the parsonage committee, stating that hardwood floors had been laid in the downstairs rooms of the parsonage and that the necessary repairs involving plumbing, papering, plastering, painting and carpenter work are about completed.

Mrs. Adkins asked that the membership committee and the circle leaders meet with her in the church parlor at 2 p. m. Monday, November 11.

The program in charge of Mrs. N. E. Reichelderfer opened with the devotional service conducted by Miss Reba Lee.

After the talk by the Rev. Mr. Peterson, Mrs. W. T. Uhl gave a resume of "Our Inheritance". She said there are four hundred communities in the world touched by the missionary activities of Methodist women. The settlement houses, children's homes, school, clinics and hospitals of the women's missionary societies are valued at $20,000,000, their spiritual value is beyond measure.

An interesting item she mentioned was that the first English missionary society was founded by Oliver Cromwell and that the first missionary to be sent out was a medical missionary to the heathen in America.

Mrs. Adkins reminded the group that local church activities are an important part of the year's program and the year's budget. Circle leaders have made plans for continued interest throughout the year. Many unique ideas are taking form and give promise of a series of splendid meetings.

Circle 2, under the leadership of Mrs. George Bennett, served the noon luncheon.

The December luncheon will be in charge of Circle 3 with Mrs. George Welker as chairman.

Mrs. Weart Honored

Mrs. Irvin Weart of Cherokee, Ia., who is visiting relatives in Circleville, was honored at an informal luncheon Thursday at the home of Mrs. John Boggs, West Union Street. Mrs. Boggs asked close friends of Mrs. Weart for the affair, the guests being members of a bridge club in which the honor guest played while a resident of Circleville.

Morris Chapel Aid

During the business session of Morris Chapel Aid Society Thursday at the home of Mrs. Lyman Riffel, Pickaway Township, plans were made for an all day meeting in December at the home of Mrs. Marvin Musselman, Pickaway Township. Each member is requested to take a covered dish for the noon lunch. It is planned to make a comfort during the day to

CBS network. The flash-back tech-

How one town continued to prosper after the famous gas boom in central Indiana in the 1890's will be recalled on the broadcast of "This Land of Ours" over WLW on Sunday, at 10:30 p. m.

The half hour drama is situatthe decline which by 1905 had turned many previously thriving communities into ghost towns.

Through the experience of a young man who comes to live in Marion, it will show how the city maintained its prosperity through a diversification of industry.

ELKS, VETERANS ACTIVE

Several Bands, Patriotic Orders To Participate In Procession

Eli Jensen of Springfield, past commander of the Department of Ohio, American Legion, will speak at the American Legion-Elks Armistice Day celebration Monday evening in Memorial Hall.

With a principal speaker secured for the occasion, plans for the completion of the program will be made immediately. E. C. Ebert, member of the program committee, announced Friday.

Ceremonies are expected to start with a parade at 7:30 p. m. The parade will form on Main Street in front of Memorial Hall, will move west on Main Street to Court, north on Court to Pinekey, west on Pinekey to Scioto, south on Scioto to Main, and east on Main to Memorial Hall.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars band, the Circleville High School band and the American Legion drum corps have been secured to furnish the music for the parade and the program to follow.

All fraternal and patriotic organizations in Circleville and Pickaway County have been invited to participate in the parade. Chairman Ebert said that he was not certain of the number of organizations which would be in the parade.

The program will begin at 8 p. m., the audience singing America for the opening number, followed by an invocation by the Rev. L. C. Sherburne, pastor of the St. Philip's Episcopal Church. Mr. Jensen, who has previously spoken at patriotic gatherings in Circleville, has not yet announced his subject, although it was generally understood, the theme would coincide with the occasion. The program will close with the audience singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

Other members of the program committee are William Betts, Jr., E. A. Smith, Mack Parrett and Lawrence Johnson. The complete program follows: "America" by the V. F. W. band. Invocation by the Rev. L. C. Sherburne. Exalted Ruler Andrew Thomas of Elks Lodge introduces representatives of the government and heads of veterans and fraternal organizations who are present. "God Bless America" sung by the Elks double quartet. Exalted Ruler introduces speaker, Eli Jensen. Allegiance to the Flag, lead by a Boy Scout. Star Spangled Banner by the V. F. W. band. Benediction, lead by the Rev. L. C. Sherburne.

every effort to insure their safe return. The ambassador expressed the opinion that Germany could not attempt an invasion of England until the German air force overcame the RAF, and he added: "I don't think the Germans can do it."

Kennedy said he planned to rest until Christmas before returning to work in war-torn England. He said he planned to fly to California Sunday for a visit with his son, John, and then to Florida until after the Christmas holidays. Kennedy reiterated his plea that the United States should give Great Britain all aid short of an expeditionary force.
